

"The wines are very well made and attractive. Nova Scotia is a really interesting place, and now is the time for it to consider how it tells its story to the world, and just what that story is."

~Jamie Goode (Wine Blogger)

"I was bowled over by the food, the wine and the people. Fresh scallops, world-class méthode traditionnelle and crisp saline air makes perfect sense to me. Viva Nova Scotia!"

TIDALBAY

Nova Scotia's Signature White Wine

"Nova Scotia's very cool-climate, maritime terroir is unrivalled in the world for making this type of wine."

~Peter Gamble

"Being unique is our only opportunity to penetrate that international market — by being unique and special and producing different wine,"

~ Pete Luckett.

Luckett Vineyards, Tidal Bay 2011, -One of the prettiest Tidal Bay wines I've tasted: fresh, crisp and floral with lovely replays of white peach on the palate, "Natalie Maclean

"Nova Scotia is one of Canada's great emerging wine regions.

This new research winery will use science to help grape growers and vintners explore the full potential of wine making in the province and further solidify Canada's reputation for quality wines in the global marketplace.

By investing in agriculture here in Nova Scotia and across Canada, the Government will continue to grow the economy and create jobs for our middle class."

~Lawrence MacAulay, Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada

What wine on our summer wine list are you most excited for people to try?

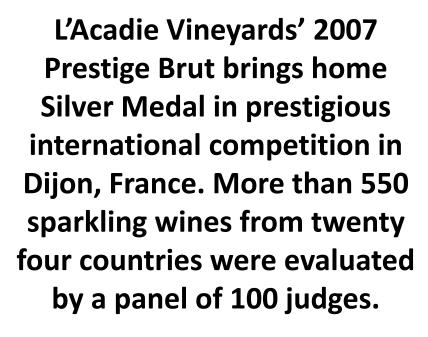

Eileanan Brèagha Vineyards (Beautiful Islands) "Cayuga" from Marble Mountain on the Bras d'Or Lakes, Nova Scotia's northernmost vineyard.

Thomas Spooner, Sommelier at The Barrington Steakhouse & Oyster Bar

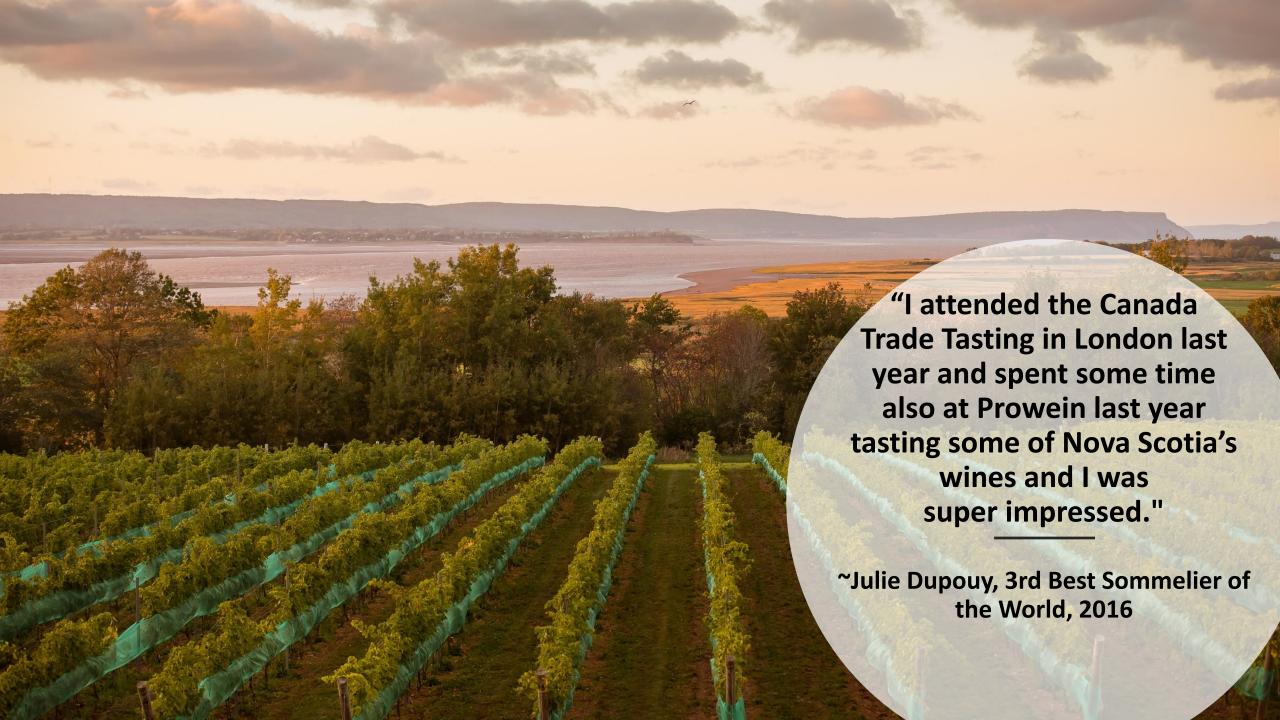

"L'Acadie's sparkling wines, crafted with the traditional method used in France since the 16th century, have won numerous awards and are worth a sip."

~Lisa Hoekstra, quench

New Heights for Benjamin Bridge The Chronicle Herald

N.S wine available on most WestJet international flights. "This wine has the potential to put Nova Scotia sparkling firmly on the national and even world map,"

~ Wine writer, John Szabo of Toronto

"The Benjamin Bridge project is among North America's most ambitious and serious winery ventures I've had the pleasure of encountering in years. Established in the far reaches of Nova Scotia, these folks are making serious wines in the most marginal of conditions, with a dedication that is astounding."

~ Alder Yarrow, founder of Vinography.com

"We have some wonderful, huge assets now that we didn't have back in the '80s and the '90s and that's in the form of young, professional winemakers who are absolutely dedicated, not just to the profession and the craft, but to the place."

~ Roger Dial

Gaspereau Vineyards

"Nova Scotia is known for its seafood and breathtaking views, but the climate has also made it a wine destination specializing in sparkling and white wines"

~Remy Charest, writer for Wine Enthusiast
